House Group Votes To Cut Taxes But Floor Action Delay Promised

Demos Rap Ike's Hands-Off Policy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee, overriding Democratic protests that the Eisenhower administration should be heard first, voted today for a 10 per cent cut in individual income taxes, starting June 30.

But almost immediately, Republican leaders promised that floor action would be delayed until after May 1, to give them time to cut federal spending before income is reduced.

With the administration silent on the issue, and unrepresented at the closed meeting, the Ways and Means Committee voted 21 to 4 to send the tax-trimming bill by Chairman Reed (R-NY) to the House floor.

Dem Delays Moves Fall

Democrats said never in history had the committee taken such critical action without even hearing from the Treasury. Nor, they charged, has any other administration ever ducked a stand on such an important decision before the committee.

Democratic committee members put up five proposals to delay action on the Reed's measure until the administration gives its views. Each was beaten by straight party-line committee vote, 15 Republicans against 10 Democrats.

Reed commented only that "the action speaks for itself." He had set today as the deadline for committee approval—and he met it. The New Yorker has insisted committee members are so familiar with the bill that consultation with the Eisenhower administration "isn't necessary."

Senate Leaders Urge Delay

The bill would chop some 1½ billion dollars off federal revenue for the fiscal year starting July 1. The budget submitted by outgoing President Truman forecast that under present laws income would total $68,700,000,000 during the next fiscal year—leaving a deficit of over 10 billion dollars.

Republicans, however, have promised to cut drastically the spending outlined by Truman.

Congressional leaders have indicated they expect the Reed Bill eventually to clear the House. But it faces rocky going in the Senate, where Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and other leaders have called for a delay in tax reductions until 1954.

Sabre Jets Bag Three Red MiGs

SEOUL, Tuesday, Feb. 17 (AP)—Rampaging Sabre jets shot down three and possibly four Communist MiGs and damaged seven others Monday, the Air Force reported, while 200 fighter bombers poured fiery destruction on a Red troop supply area near Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Returning pilots said 96 buildings were destroyed at Kyomipo and the entire target area was churned into a "sea of smoke and fire" by Allied bombs.

The aerial war picked up intensity while ground fighting sputtered in a series of small raids and patrol clashes along the frozen 155-mile front. Temperatures dropped below zero.

Plunges To Death

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—A woman tentatively identified as Mrs. Leora S. O'Callaghan of Indian Head, Md., plunged to her death from a bridge over Rock Creek Park today.

Fast Track Seen For Annual International Pancake Race

OLNEY, England, Feb. 16 (AP)—The weatherwise cast an eye at the skies today and forecast clear, crisp weather for tomorrow's fourth annual running of the great International Pancake Race.

Good weather, they reckoned, gives the women of this Midland market town an odds-on chance of beating the housewives of Liberal, Kan., in a hectic 415-yard scamper while flipping a pancake in a skillet.

Smack on 11:55 a. m. (6:55 a. m., EST), Janitor Bill Mynard will sound the bell of Olney's ancient parish church, signalling the start.

Fifty flying frying pans push by 50 determined women will浩 off from the town pump down the S-shaped course to the church door.

On the way each aproned entry has to toss her pancake three times. Short-odds entry Mrs. Joan Zimmerman.

House Unit Gives Pentagon's Fund Request Brushoff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee launched its 1953 budget-cutting drive with a bang today, slashing 60 per cent for a supplemental money measure.

The biggest cut was a complete turnaround of a Defense Department request for $1,200,000,000 to tide it over until the end of the fiscal year ending June 30. The committee hacked $1,409,046,670 off of $2,313,719,590 requested by all government agencies, approving only $904,672,920 in new funds.

The requests for supplementary funds originally were made by the Truman administration and, in some instances, were scaled down by department heads appointed by President Eisenhower.

Economy Or Book Operation?

There was some question whether the claimed saving resulting from the committee's action on defense funds is an actual economy or a bookkeeping operation.

The committee didn't halt any of the defense projects involved, but said they should be financed from funds already appropriated for this fiscal year and not yet spent.

To accomplish this, it authorized transfers within the Defense Department's many budget accounts.

One possible effect is that the funds from which the transfers are made may have to be replenished later when the department's regular budget bill, for the new fiscal year starting July 1, is considered.

Army Stocks Reduced

The committee also got a hint that the military's efforts to keep from asking Congress for more funds this year may result in higher requests for money for the next fiscal year.

Lt. Gen. A. C. McAuliffe, Army deputy chief of staff for operations, said in testimony released today that stretching of funds appropriated for conducting the Korean fighting had resulted in equipment stocks being reduced without being replaced.

This, McAuliffe said, had saved money but had not improved the Army's combat readiness and had delayed progress toward "a proper state of mobilization readiness."

Army officers told the committee there was enough money on hand to finance the Korean fighting through June 30 without asking for more funds, unless the tempo of the fighting picks up.

$30,000 Found In Vacant House By Electricians

DASSEL, Minn., Feb. 16 (AP)—About $30,000 in cash was found in the musty attic of a vacant farm house near here by two young electricians who were installing new wiring.

The money was stuffed into pint jars, wrapped in old black stockings and sealed in envelopes. Most of the cash was in $20 bills, although it ranged in denominations from $5 to $100.

No decision had been reached Monday on the ownership of the money. A spokesman for the Minnesota attorney general's office said there is no general law applying to claims for money that is found.

Yalta Pact Scrapping Opposed By Britain

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today Britain has registered objections with the United States against any plan to scrap parts of the Yalta agreement.

He told a questioner it has been made clear to the United States that Britain does not agree that a one-sided repudiation of an international agreement would be a good thing.

With the Liberal organizer, Eugene Slaymaker, he will compare the stopwatch times and so decide whether Olney recovers the silver trophy which went to the United States town for the first time last year.

Once the sermon is over he will stand by for a transatlantic call from Kansas.

President Eisenhower has announced he would ask Congress to waive out certain secret wartime agreements permitting the "enslavement" of peoples. A section of the 1945 Yalta agreement by Britain, Russia and the United States.

Parson Collins, who says pancake racing started here back in the 15th century, has cast an expert eye over the likely field and reckons Olney can clip the record of one minute, eight seconds set by Liberal's Donna Zimmerman.

SETS EXECUTION DATE — Atom Spies Ethel and Julius Rosenberg were ordered put to death in the Sing Sing Prison electric chair in the week of March 9 by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman, shown above in his chambers in New York after signing the order yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Week Of March 9 Set As Execution Date For A-Spies

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Atomic Spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were condemned anew today to die in three weeks—a judgment that is expected to heighten the drumbeat of worldwide propaganda against their execution.

Without comment, Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman set the week of March 9 as the execution period for the first American civilians ever condemned to die for wartime espionage.

Rosenberg, 34, and his tiny 36-year-old wife were spared death on the original execution date of Jan. 14 so they could appeal to the White House for clemency. President Eisenhower turned them down last week.

Reds Protest Verdict

Communists throughout the world have protested the verdict that doomed the couple for their wartime spying for Soviet Russia. Picket lines have tramped before the White House off and on for weeks.

However, non-Communist concern with the case also was highlighted last week when it was revealed Pope Plus XII had relayed to the Justice Department protests he received against the execution. The Pope did not comment on the merits of the case.

The Rosenbergs have no more than a ghost of a chance of beating the electric chair, unless, in a last minute change of heart, they decide to tell the whole story of their spy activities.

New Appeal Planned

Thus far they have maintained innocence and insisted they have nothing to tell.

Their attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, still is pressing the case with the U. S. Supreme Court as his destination. However, the high court already has twice refused to intervene in the case and it would be almost unprecedented for the justices to change their minds.

The Rosenbergs were arrested July 17, 1950, and convicted March 29, 1951.

Judge Kaufman sentenced them to death on April 5, 1951, calling them guilty of a crime worse than murder—a sentiment echoed last week by President Eisenhower.

Reports Enough Of Revenue Boost To Allow Tax Cut Flood Statehouse

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 16 (AP)—Reports that more revenue may be turned up to allow an immediate income-tax cut floated through the Statehouse tonight as Maryland lawmakers waited for a briefing on Virginia's plan for automatic tax relief.

Highly placed sources said a meeting tomorrow of the state's Board of Revenue Estimates may produce welcome news to taxpayers.

The board's forecasts of state income are as official as any may be. Gov. McFadden, as his predecessors, took its estimates in drawing up his 195-million-dollar budget proposal for 1953-54.

The same estimates would forestall tax reduction without a sharp cut in appropriations.

Comptroller Tawes, who heads the three-man board, agreed last week to review estimates made last November. He and State Treasurer Miles, who with Budget Director Rennie make up the board, declined to predict their double-check would result in an increase.

Authoritative spokesmen in the capital expressed confidence today enough of a boost was in sight to make some kind of reduction possible now. They said the most likely target again would be the state income tax.

State Sen. Harry Byrd Jr. of Virginia drove up to meet with Maryland senators and explain the tax

President, Top Officials Map Global Moves

Ike And Stevenson Will Confer Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower took a first step toward creation of a Cabinet-rank federal security department today, discussed plans for repudiation of certain secret international agreements, and arranged to meet tomorrow with Adlai E. Stevenson.

The President also stepped up the new administration's cold war planning by appointing a special assistant, C. D. Jackson of New York City, to work with the various government agencies engaged in the psychological warfare field.

Then he met with a score of administration and military officials for a hush-hush conference which stirred speculation as to whether the possibility of using atomic weapons against the Communists in Korea was under study.

AE Members Sit In

Among those who sat in at the White House session were members of the Atomic Energy Commission and Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Vice President Nixon and other members of the National Security Council also attended.

Relatives Scan Bodies Of Plane Crash Victims

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 16 (AP)—A Coast Guard cutter pulled into Mobile today with its grisly cargo of 17 bodies from the National Airlines DC-6 crash in the Gulf of Mexico. There were bodies of three men and 14 women—all unidentified.

The air-sea search for 29 other occupants of the plane went on.

Bodies Are Mangled

Grim-faced crew members, exhausted by a 43-hour search of storm-tossed Gulf waters 44 miles southeast of Mobile, unloaded the mangled bodies one by one. Broad strips of white canvas shrouded the dead.

Coast guardsmen aboard the vessel said some of the bodies were beyond recognition.

Six hearses received them and drove them to a mortuary where relatives and friends waited to begin identification.

The foredeck of the cutter Blackthorn was littered with wreckage from the plane which plunged into the Gulf Saturday afternoon with 46 passengers and crewmen.

CAA To Inspect Debris

The sodden debris was piled onto the dock for inspection by Civil Aeronautics Authorities. Among the lot were 33 shoes, one of them a lot mesh evening slipper apparently never danced in.

Then began the solemn procession of litter-borne corpses.

In the wreckage aboard the Blackthorn were two life rafts from the plane. The rafts had never been inflated. Another damaged life raft found by the cutter was ripped and lost in efforts to bring it aboard. A fourth raft, like the others never inflated, was brought in by a Coast Guard patrol boat last night.

plan he authored for his home state. Byrd is the son of the veteran U. S. senator who has long strived for more economies in the federal budget.

Eleven insurgent Maryland senators already have proposed an automatic tax-cut procedure similar to that of Virginia. They asked Byrd to explain the details.

The recommendation for Maryland goes like this:

Starting in 1954, the comptroller will match actual tax receipts against those forecast 18 months earlier when the fiscal-year budget was introduced.

If collections exceed estimates by more than 5 per cent of the original prediction for the income tax alone, the surplus will be used for tax relief. The income levy would be singled out for reduction to absorb the entire surplus.

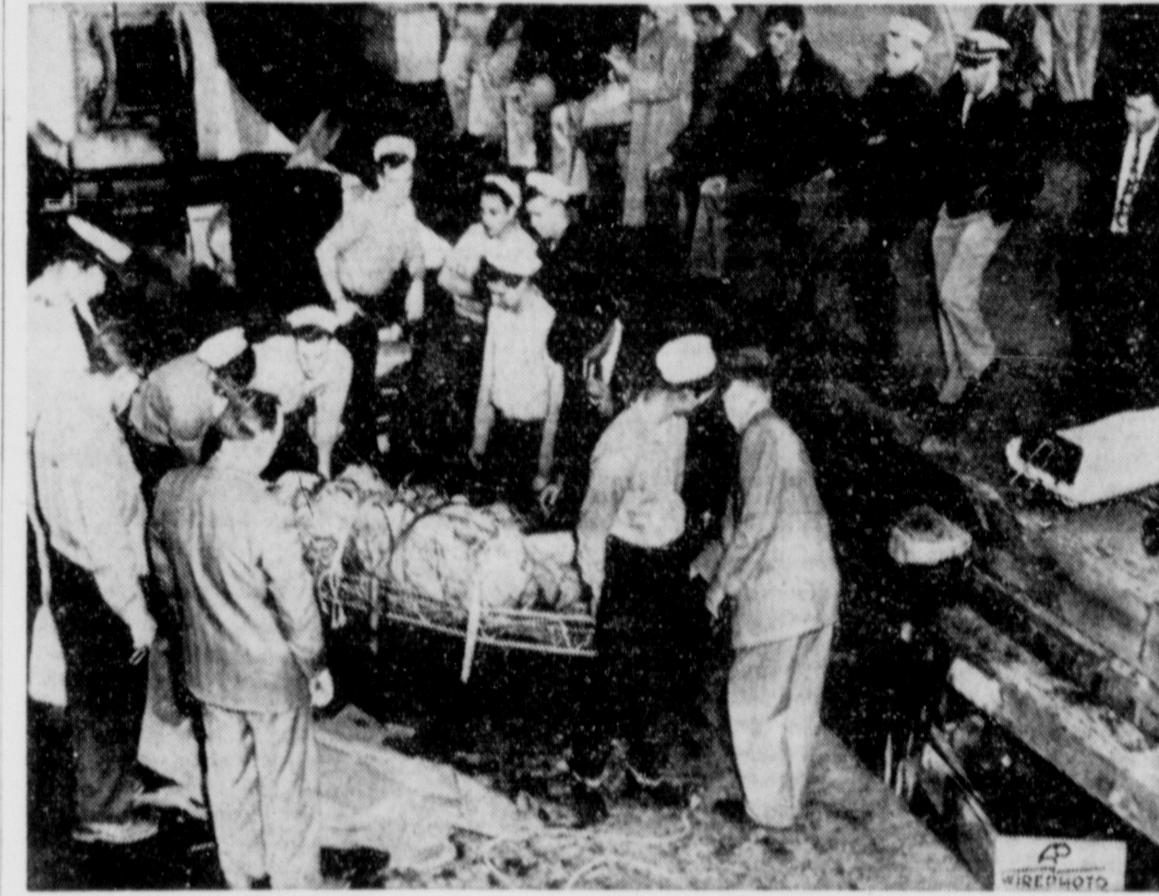

The House tonight passed and sent to the governor a bill to forbid any future leasing of barren oyster bottoms in Somerset County.

The Senate turned down a bill that would have exempted all foreign diplomats except those of the Soviet Union from Maryland's automobile titling tax.

It approved a measure to create a new criminal records bureau at state police headquarters.

Senators also recommended forming two commissions. One would survey the feasibility of

Body Of Crash Victim Taken Ashore

The body of one of the victims of the National Airlines plane crash is transferred from the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn to the dock after the vessel brought 17 bodies to Mobile, Ala., yesterday.

Apparently all 48 persons aboard the airliner died when the ship plunged into the Gulf of Mexico.

Cult Builds Refuge For A-Attack Seen Coming This Year

SEDALIA, Colo., Feb. 16 (AP)—Two hundred members of a religious cult have built what is called an "atom proof" refuge near here to protect them from an atomic bomb attack their leader says will come this year.

Reporter Buck Wilson and Photographer David Mathias of the Denver Post said they obtained a copy of an address made recently to the group by its leader, Dr. M. Doreal, 55.

This address told the group that most of the world and three-fourths of its population would be destroyed by atomic explosions during 1953. It forecast an all-out atomic attack would be launched on the United States by Russia "probably on May 10 and no later than early September."

McCarthy Blasts Probe Reprisals, Asks Crackdown

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today called on Secretary of State Dulles to punish State Department officials he accused of taking reprisals against a witness in a Senate investigation of mysteriously missing files.

Samuel J. Boykin, one of the officials singled out as a target of McCarthy's fire, promptly retorted that the Wisconsin senator was ruining morale in the U. S. foreign service.

McCarthy hinted that if Boykin persisted in his attitude, he might find himself shifted to a less desirable job. Boykin is now acting chief of the State Department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

Contempt Action Threatened

Denouncing the reprisals as "inexcusable," McCarthy threatened to take contempt action if Dulles fails to crack down on the alleged offenders.

The Wisconsin senator's ire was aroused when John E. Matson, a department security agent, testified he was demoted to a "pavement-pounding, doorbell-ringing assignment" after disclosing that a report he had written about a suspected Communist in the foreign service disappeared from the department's files.

Matson said his disclosure about the missing report made his State Department bosses "quite unhappy," and he added:

"They felt possibly I might disclose the truth."

Boykin Says Witnesses Scared

Matson originally told of the vanished document in testimony before McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee on Feb. 5. Four days later he was transferred to what he called a beat-pounding job.

Boykin, angrily defended the change in Matson's assignment, said in testimony before the subcommittee:

"The people called up to testify are just scared to death. They're afraid of Sen. McCarthy. They're afraid of Mr. Matson. They couldn't do their jobs. They were afraid of losing their jobs."

"Morale in the foreign service was just non-existent because of these hearings."

Jelke's Secret Vice Trial Simmers Down

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP)—Mint (Mickey) Jelke's secret vice trial simmered down today, although two more of cafe society's soiled beauties took the stand for the state.

"Nothing startling—nothing sensational," was the report on their testimony from Defense Attorney Sam Segal. He added of the state:

"They're just trying to build up corroboration. They are just trying to make out their case."

The flurry of out-of-court rumor and hubbub was missing with the exit of the state's star witness, Pat Ward, who finished her testimony last week.

Stevenson Cheered By Congressmen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson played to a standing-room-only audience of cheering Democrats and a few Republicans on Capitol Hill today.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, sun-tanned and the picture of health after his vacation in the West Indies, was greeted by House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) as he entered the big caucus room of the House office building.

With a smile, Stevenson quipped:

"I think if this Republican country goes on much longer, I won't have a hatchet left."

The defeated Democratic standard bearer also visited on the Senate side, conferring with Democratic senators behind closed doors.

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP)—Tremendous accelerating capacity is being built in today's automobile engines and it is needed in the increasing traffic hazards now encountered by the average motorist.

This, in effect, is the explanation of the car industry's engineers for the steadily mounting horsepower developed by the more modern auto power plant. The engineers hear much about a so-called "horsepower race" growing out of the appearance of more 200-plus horsepower engines in stock cars.

But they deny they have put higher horsepower into the engines just to get more speed. Performance rather than speed has been the objective, they say.

Aside from providing the ability to get away from impending trouble in a hurry, the engine builders say, their major goal has been to improve engine performance at the low and middle speed ranges. One leading engineer explained the objective of most recent car engine design this way:

"By producing engines with great reserves in them, we can give you engines that do their normal jobs with ease. Because they are using only 40 to 50 per cent of their capacity at highway cruising speeds, they are more economical and they last much longer. At such easy paces, they are quiet and smooth."

There long has been an impression that because an engine has high horsepower potential it consumes fuel in wasteful quantities regardless of the speed at which it operates. This the engineers say, has been thoroughly disproved in many of today's auto engines.

Man Arrested In Robbery Of Liquor Store

Police announced today a man wanted in connection with the theft of $1,000 from a Frostburg liquor store since December 20, 1951, has been taken into custody near Philadelphia.

The long investigation was conducted by Trooper First Class Charles W. DeWitt and Frostburg Chief of Police Benjamin Thomas assisted by William F. Baker, criminal investigator at the LaVale Barracks of Maryland State Police.

By tracing automobile registration changes, a man police identified as Sherman Summers, 27, formerly of Mechanic Street, Frostburg, was located in Lower Merion Township near Philadelphia.

A teletype was sent Sunday to Pennsylvania State Police requesting that Summers be placed under arrest.

He was taken into custody and said he will waive extradition procedure. The authorities said a deputy from the office of Sheriff Edward R. Muir will go to Lower Merion Township today to pick up Summers.

Police said on the early morning of December 20, 1951, the front door of Lucky's Liquor Store on Main Street in Frostburg was opened by a bar.

The $1,000 in currency was removed from an old cigar box under the cash register, the investigators, reported, adding that nothing else in the store was touched.

Police stated today that the morning of the burglary Summers purchased a car with cash and disappeared. Attempts to pick him up for questioning at his home in Westminster were fruitless.

Finally, checking the Motor Vehicle Bureau in Harrisburg, Pa., police found the Maryland registration on this particular auto had been changed to a Pennsylvania registration.

In this manner Summers' address was obtained and a pick up order on him was issued, the officers stated.

One night prior to the burglary an unsuccessful attempt was made to break in the rear door of the same store, police said.

1028 Business Houses Asked For Statements

Requests for financial statements have been mailed to 1028 business concerns in the Cumberland area according to George Yoa, manager of Dun and Bradstreet's Baltimore office.

More than 2,600,000 statement requests are being mailed from the 138 branch offices. Information which Dun and Bradstreet requests in the statements, together with additional material gathered by their reporters and correspondents on the history of each concern, its method of operation and payment record, is an important part of the credit report written on each business. It also is the basis for the financial rating assigned to the 1028 businesses in the Cumberland area listed in the Dun and Bradstreet Reference Book.

Gas Prices Here May Go Up

Oil industry spokesman said yesterday there is "no pressure" for higher prices on gasoline despite the lifting of price controls.

One major oil company official in Baltimore said "The only place in Maryland where gas prices may go up is in Hagerstown or Cumberland. Some of the people there were caught under rather low ceilings."

"In the Baltimore area I don't expect any change in the near future."

The sales manager for another petroleum firm said he could see no reason for an increase.

"There is plenty of gas and plenty of competition," he added.

Lawrence F. Shaffer, Lifelong Resident, Dies At Son's Home

Lawrence F. Shaffer, 74, of 439 Cumberland Street, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the home of his son, Lawrence, Jr., in Suffolk, Va., following a short illness. He had been a lifelong resident of Cumberland.

Mr. Shaffer, who with his wife had been visiting their son and family in Suffolk for the Christmas holidays, had undergone an operation there and had expected to return to Cumberland shortly.

He was a son of the late William F. and Sophia Schultz Shaffer, both of Cumberland, and is survived by his widow, the former Alberta White of Lonaconing; two children, his son Lawrence and a daughter, Mildred Shaffer of Hamilton, Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. J. Walter Sills, Mrs. Paul Heuer, and Mrs. Robert E. King, all of Cumberland, and Mrs. Charles William Edmonds, Baltimore; a brother, Harry P. Shaffer, of Baltimore; and four grandchildren.

Mr. Shaffer was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church and a past patron of a local Eastern Star chapter and a member of a Masonic organization.

He at one time clerked in the W. E. Turner drug store on Centre Street before opening his own paint concern on Pershing Street.

Later he was caretaker and custodian at Allegany High School until recent years when he retired.

Watchman Found Dead Near Mine In Garrett Co.

Edward Morris Bray, 57-year-old mine watchman, was found dead in a road at Vindex yesterday morning. Authorities said they believed he had died of a heart attack while at work.

Garrett County Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said Bray, a night watchman at shut-down workings of the Johnstown Coal and Coke Company at Vindex, had been under treatment for a heart condition.

He was a son of the late William F. and Sophia Schultz Shaffer, both of Cumberland, and is survived by his widow, the former Alberta White of Lonaconing; two children, his son Lawrence and a daughter, Mildred Shaffer of Hamilton, Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. J. Walter Sills,

Mrs. Paul Heuer, and Mrs. Robert E. King, all of Cumberland, and Mrs. Charles William Edmonds, Baltimore; a brother, Harry P. Shaffer, of Baltimore; and four grandchildren.

His hand clutched a shovel, leading authorities to believe he had been shoveling snow when he died.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two sons, Roy and Patrick Bray, both of Cumberland; three sisters, Mrs. June O'Donnell, Kitzmiller; Mrs. Virginia Michaels, Pittsburgh; and Mrs. Pearl Wilson, Barton; a half-brother, Okey Jenkins, Cresson, and four grandchildren.

He is a son of the late Charles Edward Bray and Mrs. Maru Virginia Jenkins Bray. He was a member of Kitzmiller Methodist Church and of Aerie 720, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Piedmont, W. Va.

The body is at the home of a funeral service will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Bethel Methodist Church at Kitzmiller. Burial will be in Bray Cemetery near there.

How To Keep Well

Pregnancy In Older Women

The best years for women to bear children are between the ages of 20 and 25. Labor is easier and likely to be of short duration and there is less tendency to develop complications such as hemorrhage and toxemia. But this does not mean that it is dangerous for women in other age groups to bear children.

Some of the easiest confinements I have witnessed occurred in 17, 18 and 19 year olds. Many of these young women are surprisingly well developed and have all the equipment for a perfect job. Furthermore, they are strong and in excellent health. Women over 30 are not so fortunate but the handicap is not as great as we have been led to believe. Many of the hazards have been exaggerated. Women who have had several babies know the value of preparing for childbirth well in advance and usually sail through the process without complications.

The same is not always true, however, of the women of 35 who is delivered of an infant for the first time. Obstetrically speaking, these gals are classified as elderly primiparae as the childbearing age extends from approximately 20 to 40 years. In the past, physicians always kept their fingers crossed when consulted by women in their late 30s who were about to have a first child. Labor is longer and more difficult and, after delivery, nursing problems and breast troubles are said to occur.

However, most of these problems have been exaggerated not only by the physician but by the patient. Many studies substantiate this statement and we now know that the majority of complications are avoided when the elderly primipara consults the physician early in her pregnancy or before the family is planned. This helps her to discover any physical disturbances and to build up her own health before undertaking the task.

A followup study along this line was conducted by Doctors Donald G. Johnson and R. Vernon Colpitts of New York Lying-In hospital, who investigated two groups of patients. The first (series A) consisted of 30,880 women who were delivered of full term or premature infants in an 11 year interval from 1932 to 1943. Of these, 830 were classified as elderly primiparae. The second group (series B) covered the succeeding 7½ years. In this time 26,608 were delivered of their first child and 944 were 35 years of age or older. In both groups some complications were observed more frequently than in the younger groups. One hundred and thirty-seven (7.5 per cent) had fibroids which in many instances were large enough to require cesarean section. Approximately 13 per cent had toxemia but with the improved treatment we assume the second group received there was only one death from this cause.

In series A, labor was prolonged in 17.59 per cent and 8.4 per cent in series B. This trend was noted also in the younger group and is a sign of obstetrical progress. The more frequent recourse to cesarean section in the older age group accounted for some of the reduction. As a result, the average length of labor in series B was 13.37 hours in contrast to 20.41 hours in series A.

HYPERTENSION

T. C. writes: What causes high blood pressure?

The causes vary but in the more common vascular type the blood vessels are narrowed owing to a contraction or spasm of the walls. This increases resistance against the flow of blood and, to overcome the handicap, pressure increases. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hypertension.

UNLOCK THE JOINT

L. P. writes: Is a locked knee dangerous?

In this condition the torn cartilage is caught in the hinged part of the joint. Unless the defect is allowed to heal spontaneously with rest or is corrected surgically, the victim will become disabled whenever real exertion is attempted. Even a slight twist or misstep can throw the cartilage out of its normal position.

HEART DISEASES

P. L. writes: How many types of heart diseases are there?

REPLY

Approximately 21 main varieties.

ADDICTED TO LUMBAGO

W. L. writes: Every winter I suffer at least one attack of lumbago. I try not to become chilled and would like to know if there are any other preventive measures I could take.

Avoid drafts, heavy lifting, and fatigue. Inserting a board between your mattress and springs will prevent sagging of the bed, a situation that may be a factor in your backaches.

SPASM AND ALLERGY

G. H. writes: Is allergy a factor in pyrolarospasm?

This is one of many causes. In pyrolarospasm caused by allergy, food is likely to be the culprit.

New Agriculture Chief May Lose Job Over Farm Crisis; Farmers Complain About High Costs, Low Profits; New GOP Club Evokes Ministers' Criticism

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Benson doesn't know it, but the White House is thinking of firing him if the farm crisis gets much worse. His hostile attitude toward price supports at the same time farm prices are dangerously skidding has made him the logical target in case the administration decides it's necessary to appease the farmers.

One White House aide remarked privately that Benson is "expedient" and may be jockeyed out of his present hot seat into a less controversial job, perhaps as an ambassador.

Meanwhile, here are the latest clouds on the darkening farm horizon:

1. Farm prices, now at a post-war low, are expected to fall another five per cent in the next few months. Yet the cost of marketing farm products has gone up. Thus the farmer, who got 34 cents of the housewife's dollar in 1945-46, now receives only 45 cents.

2. Farm exports have fallen off 30 per cent in the past year, leaving the farmers' bins overloaded and adding pressure to the downward price trend. The situation is so bad that senators are considering an international food reserve to stabilize the international market and shift food from surplus to starvation areas.

3. Farmers are so wrought up over plunging prices and Benson's remarks against supports that some farm-state Republicans were actually afraid to go home for Lu-coln Day speeches. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman George Aiken of Vermont is trying to shush congressional critics, is pleading that the storm will blow over. However, the lid is about to blow off Capitol Hill.

Farmer Pays More

What has the farmers especially riled is that their costs are creeping up at the same time their prices are tobogganing down. For example, consumers paid $722 in 1951 for what is known as the "farm-food market basket." Of this, the farmers got $369 and the handlers, processors, and distributors got $362—an even split. One year later, however—1952—the same "farm-food market basket" cost the consumers $739, an increase of $17, while the farmer's take was down $20 to $340. The middlemen's charges, on the other hand, were up $37 to $399.

In other words, the farmer not only is getting less for what he sells, but is paying more for what he buys.

One basic cause of tumbling farm prices is the drastic drop-off in agricultural exports, particularly wheat and cotton. To counteract this, a group of senators, led by Montana Democrat Jim Murray, are studying a proposal to establish an international food reserve.

The idea would be to collect surplus food in an international clearing house and distribute it to countries under the shadow of famine and starvation. Countries putting food into the reserve would draw out raw materials, such as iron and oil.

Murray argues that the world problem is not overproduction but underproduction; that our fellow men are starving in some countries while food stacks up at home. He also claims that an international food reserve would stop the shrinking foreign markets and declining farm prices.

Benson's "Middlemen"

Meanwhile, the farmers are taking their ire out on Secretary of Agriculture Benson, a man of high integrity but outspoken views. His blunt statements in favor of a "free market" rather than "government bounty," and his description of price supports as "disaster insurance" required courage but were a reversal of President Eisenhower's campaign promise for 100 per cent parity price support. Ike even went further than Adlai Stevenson in this promise.

Farmers claim as much right to government subsidies as the big manufacturers who get tax amortization and tariff protection, or the workingmen who receive retirement and welfare benefits, or the big airlines and shipping companies that draw outright subsidies.

The farmers complain that Benson has loaded the Agriculture Department with agricultural middlemen, not the men who till the soil but those who "farm the farmers."

Traditionally, these middlemen have fought against price supports in order to keep farm prices low and their own profits high.

Benson's top assistants and advisers are now so predominantly processors and businessmen that his fellow Republican and chief congressional critic, Sen. Milt Young of North Dakota, remarked to him caustically: "So far as I know you have not appointed any farmers."

To appease Young, Benson sent his new Commodity Credit Corporation chief, John H. Davis, around to pay a good-will call. However, Davis promptly got off on the wrong foot by lecturing the senator that he shouldn't be criticizing Benson but helping him.

"We are all part of the same team," Davis pleaded.

Abruptly Young retorted that he intended to keep on criticizing the senator as long as farm prices are declining and the farmers are facing disaster.

Cocktail Chatter

The plush, new Capitol Hill club, built as a Republican refuge in the shadow of the Capitol building, has stirred up a storm of pulpit-pounding. The ministers denounce it as a "drinking club" . . . . The club's confidential prospectus describes what it's like inside. "(The facilities) will include a spacious lounge or meeting room, a dining room seating about 300 people, private dining room, reading rooms, barber shop and bar cafe," says the prospectus.

"In addition, there will be about 30 double bedrooms, some for transients and some for members who may wish to rent them by the year. Furnishings and equipment are to be the best and the cuisine and service, while not elaborate, will be the finest obtainable with prices as low as possible." . . . . Those getting the worst roasting from the preachers are the senators on the club's board of governors—Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Frank Carlson of Kansas and Hugh Butler of Nebraska . . . . The proprietors are now trying to raise $400,000 to build a Republican National Headquarters next to the club. . . . Each state has been assigned a quota to raise, will be rewarded by having its shield on the cornerstone.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's much food for thought in the results of a post-election survey made by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan just announced. It could influence the thinking and the course of action of both parties in Congress between now and the next elections.

"Most voters appear to have made up their minds early. After the election, 68 per cent of those who had voted said that they had known how they were going to vote as soon as the nominations were held or even before. Most of them did not even give the other candidate serious consideration."

Confirms Previous Decision

This corroborates statements often made in these dispatches that what is said and done in the period of three and a half years before a national campaign is more influential than what is said or done during the 90 days of a campaign. To reach the undecided vote and to hold one's own party in line, the arguments and debate of the electorate rather than to predictions of the outcome of elections.

The University of Michigan's fact-finders reveal that General Eisenhower won by "swinging a substantial number of Democrats into the Republican column while holding virtually all of the traditional Republican voters."

It was found, too, that "one out of five votes came from Democrats who crossed party lines" and that "independent voters, those with no customary party preference, also went for Eisenhower by a two-to-one margin."

Supports GOP Theorists

Thus, there is support for both of the views held by Republican theorists before the election. Senator Taft always argued that the Republicans could win by holding their own vote and converting Democrats who thought the same way. Others insisted that the "independent" voters who had no particular party ties constituted the balance of power.

The Michigan research says that the Eisenhower victory wasn't brought about "by the defection of any particular group from the Democratic ranks, but by a general shift toward the Republican column."

Leaders will note that the Michigan interviewers discovered that, while "labor union members and blue collar workers stayed in the Democratic column in 1952, Stevenson's lead among them was less than that piled up by President Truman in 1948." But white collar workers, who had split evenly in 1948, gave Eisenhower a five-to-three majority in 1952, and farmers "swung heavily into the Republican column."

The failure of more votes to go to the Republican congressional nominees from those who balked in favor of Mr. Eisenhower is noted, but the reasons are not yet available, as there will be further reports from this research over the next two years. It would appear that the use of straight tickets on a single ballot in some states will have to be evaluated alongside the ballots for Congress in which many states now are separated from the Presidential candidate ballots.

What is most interesting about the whole study, however, is the question it provokes as to whether all the hullabaloo raised and money spent during Presidential campaigns is worth while. The Michigan report says:

"Most voters appear to have made up their minds early. After the election, 68 per cent of those who had voted said that they had known how they were going to vote as soon as the nominations were held or even before. Most of them did not even give the other candidate serious consideration."

Corroborates Statements

This corroborates statements often made in these dispatches that what is said and done in the period of three and a half years before a national campaign is more influential than what is said or done during the 90 days of a campaign. To reach the undecided vote and to hold one's own party in line, the arguments and debate of the electorate rather than to predictions of the outcome of elections.

The University of Michigan's fact-finders reveal that General Eisenhower won by "swinging a substantial number of Democrats into the Republican column while holding virtually all of the traditional Republican voters."

It was found, too, that "one out of five votes came from Democrats who crossed party lines" and that "independent voters, those with no customary party preference, also went for Eisenhower by a two-to-one margin."

Supports GOP Theorists

Thus, there is support for both of the views held by Republican theorists before the election. Senator Taft always argued that the Republicans could win by holding their own vote and converting Democrats who thought the same way. Others insisted that the "independent" voters who had no particular party ties constituted the balance of power.

The Michigan study also would tend to confirm the theory that it is the previous reputation of the major party itself rather than the respectability or stature of the candidate which counts, especially when he is relatively unknown when nominated.

The Michigan study also puts the "undecided" or "uncommitted" vote in proper perspective. It says:

"Some voters, approximately 10 per cent, wavered from one candidate to the other down to the last week or two of the campaign.

These procrastinators finally split their votes in about the same ratio as did all other voters. This was in marked contrast to the 1948 campaign when, according to an earlier research center study, a late shift of undecided voters to the Democratic column played an important part in helping elect President Truman."

The mistake made by most of the 1948 pollsters was to assume the "uncommitted" vote would split in the same ratio as the other voters. This did happen, of course, in 1952. But it raises the question now whether the "decided" vote also may have been wrongly polled in 1948, because if it had been recorded in a ratio substantially in favor of Truman, the "undecided" vote might well have been found to be the same as the "decided" vote.

Analysis of these studies will tend to show the importance of the "decided" rather than the "undecided" vote in political campaigns. This should encourage both Republican and Democratic leaders to mind what they are doing and saying now, instead of depending on campaign oratory to extol or to attack the record, as the case may be.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Troubles Of Israel

In troubled times, every disturbance among nations affects all countries. No one can foretell where Soviet Russia will strike or where Soviet Russia intends to develop disturbed areas.

The state of Israel is small and new, having been recognized in 1948. It is the first Jewish state to come into existence since 70 A. D., when the Romans burned the temple dedicated to God in Jerusalem.

The Jews are a curious people, because they have survived dispersion, enforced assimilation and relentless persecution. This survival has nothing to do with nationalism because in the nearly 2000 years of the Diaspora, Jews have been absorbed into many nations. It has nothing to do with race, for anthropologically and ethnologically, existing Jews are of many races, including Asiatic and African.

Wars, rape, enforced and willful assimilation over this long period have altered the racial measurements.

The Jews survived as a monotheistic, unitarian religion basing their beliefs upon the Old Testament, as interpreted by sages and rabbis in an encyclopedic work which goes by the generic term, "the Talmud."

The establishment of the Jewish state of Israel, at the time it occurred, was as much a reflex to the genocide of Hitlerism as to Zionism. Many who were not deeply concerned with Jewish problems as such were shamed by the ugliness and brutality of anti-Semitism, and supported the concept of an area upon the earth to which homeless Jews could go under their own auspices to re-establish their lives.

The founding of a new state, in an unprotectable area, in troubled times, is fraught with danger and difficulties. Actually, Israel exists legally by the authority of recognition by the United Nations, Soviet Russia voted for this recognition. The small state faced destruction from the start, in the conflict between Soviet Russia and the United States and the opposition of the various Arab countries.

There can be no doubt that Soviet Russia had hoped that because so many of these people were refugees from Hitlerism, they would be favorably disposed toward Stalin. This has not happened. Instead, Jewish culture reasserted itself in Israel, a

Council Requests Ceiling Removal On Taxing Power

The Mayor and Council by resolution today asked that the limitation on its tax levy power be removed.

The city currently levies 95 cents on each $100 of assessable property, as provided in the code. This plus 33 cents for debt service gives the tax rate of $1.28.

Cited is the increased cost of operation plus impossibility of maintaining satisfactory standards of performance and rendering necessary services.

Copies of the resolution are being sent the County Delegation and State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said the city request, if approved, does not necessarily mean an increase in the tax rate. He said the step is a precautionary measure against curtailment of city services.

Arrange Water Bond

Council also approved a motion to arrange for sale of $150,000 in bonds from the $350,000 issue approved in 1949 by the Legislature and known as "Water Improvement Bonds of 1949."

Gibson explained that the issue was authorized to take care of improvements at Lake Gordon. Since work started, however, costs went up and sale of the bonds will help pay for new filters and the chemical building.

Originally, the order called for sale of only $100,000 but Gibson suggested to Water Commissioner William G. Edwards that if rehabilitation of the old filters is planned, the amount be increased.

Edwards said that step is contemplated.

HOW A HAND SHRINKS

IT IS amazing to see how an effective looking hand can shrink when two forces operate to minimize its power—the vagaries of peculiar distribution and the errors of the holder. The latter can manifest themselves during both the auction and the play. Occasionally you will see a defender, who should be able to beat a particular contract, give the declarer valuable guidance by doubling, and then following it with one or more mistakes in the play, all of which completes the sadness of himself and his partner while dealing the declarer.

Copies of the resolution are being sent the County Delegation and State Senator Robert B. Kimble.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson said the city request, if approved, does not necessarily mean an increase in the tax rate. He said the step is a precautionary measure against curtailment of city services.

$60,000 For Old Filters

George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, told the council it will cost approximately $5,000 each or $60,000 to rehabilitate the 12 old filters but no work can be done until the new plant facilities are turned over to the city.

The old filters have never been cleaned, Hitchcock added, and it is not known what will be found.

Sale of the bonds will be arranged through the firm of Niles, Morrow, Yost and Dankmeyer in Baltimore.

Several reports were submitted and filed.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long reported 1,184 arrests last month with fines totaling $1,462. There were 23 fire calls and damage was minor.

Metropolitan Inspector William Buley said revenue decreased $30.4 for the week of February 18.

Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 91,750,000 gallons as compared to 89,840,000 the same period a year ago with a daily average of 13,107,000. The water level at Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon two inches above.

Pollock is well known here and has installed officers of Local 1874, TWUA, on a number of occasions.

Police said the defendant, James S. Muir, admitted stealing a car owned by William S. Snyder, Bedford Road, from the Queen City Hotel parking lot last Wednesday.

Muir was arrested after a chase outside Hagerstown. The machine was damaged when it hit a tree.

City Will Meet With Railway Heads On Avenue Crossing

The Mayor and Council and representatives of the Western Maryland Railway meet again tomorrow to discuss safety measures for the grade crossing of the Virginia Avenue crossing or the Ford Avenue route.

Two proposals by the railway made at a meeting last Tuesday met with opposition from local residents at this morning's session.

Adam Frost, 6 Roberts Street, filed opposition by letter to a suggestion that the crossing be closed and traffic re-routed by way of the Ford Avenue crossing. Frost said no pedestrian walks are available on Ford Avenue and resulting traffic flow would be dangerous to walkers.

Long Cities Crossing Blocks

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long, meanwhile, asked the city attorney to contact Chester B. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad, in an effort to reduce crossing blocks.

Long said the city should bring pressure to get cooperation since the law limits blocks to five minutes with a fine of $10 to $25 over that time.

Two weeks ago, Long said, he watched a train partially block a crossing at Baltimore Street and the watchman detailed one-way traffic around it. The commissioner added this created a bad situation for about 15 minutes.

Long said his department has done everything it could to move traffic along Baltimore Street. The next step is to go over or under the tracks, Long added.

Petition Voices Opposition

A petition signed by 86 residents below the crossing on Virginia Avenue opposed the closing unless a subway was constructed nearby. The petition said closing the crossing would result in time lost by the Fire Department in answering an alarm; property valuation would decrease; children would short cut across the tracks on their way to school with the danger of being killed; and that two deaths had occurred at the crossing and the petitioners did not want to see more.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the communications would be submitted at the meeting tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in his office.

Long Cities Crossing Blocks

Long Cities Crossing Blocks

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long, meanwhile, asked the city attorney to contact Chester B. Williams, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad, in an effort to reduce crossing blocks.

Long said the city should bring pressure to get cooperation since the law limits blocks to five minutes with a fine of $10 to $25 over that time.

Two weeks ago, Long said, he watched a train partially block a crossing at Baltimore Street and the watchman detailed one-way traffic around it. The commissioner added this created a bad situation for about 15 minutes.

Long said his department has done everything it could to move traffic along Baltimore Street. The next step is to go over or under the tracks, Long added.

Petition Voices Opposition

A petition signed by 86 residents below the crossing on Virginia Avenue opposed the closing unless a subway was constructed nearby. The petition said closing the crossing would result in time lost by the Fire Department in answering an alarm; property valuation would decrease; children would short cut across the tracks on their way to school with the danger of being killed; and that two deaths had occurred at the crossing and the petitioners did not want to see more.

Religious Emphasis Week Begins At Potomac State

KEYSER — Religious Emphasis Week opened at Potomac State School Sunday night with a general session in the auditorium. The program, which will continue to Wednesday, is being sponsored by two campus organizations, the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Newman Club.

Joseph C. Gluck, director of student affairs at West Virginia University, and Rev. Benjamin Farrell, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, Moundsville, W. Va., will be present for the four-day program.

The program for the week will consist of a daily morning convocation at 11 o'clock, seminars in the late afternoons, and evening meetings beginning at 8 o'clock.

Instructors will invite the speakers to their classes to correlate the religious point of view with whatever the subject matter of the class happens to be in a given class period.

Representatives from organizations are asked to attend the meeting of the committee to be held at the Health Center, Main Street, on the second Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting on Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. will be Community Night on the campus and open to the public.

Bruce Tests AHS Tonight; Urbas To Manage Old Germans

Campers' Win Would Decide County Race

Westernport Is Scene Of Action; Altoona Plays LaSalle Here

Undefeated since January 3, Allegany High School puts a 12-game winning streak on the line tonight when it plays Bruce High School in an important W. M. I. League contest in Westernport.

Bruce High School is out of the running for W. M. I. League honors but Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bulldogs would like to have the honor of handing the Campers their first League defeat in two years. Last season Coach Walter L. Bowers' Campello quint won the league crown with a 10-0 record. This season AHS had bagged eight straight in the six-school circuit and closes its W. M. I. campaign Friday by playing host to Fort Hill.

Chance To Cop 19th Title

This is a real important game for Allegany as the Campers could sweep up their 19th league title in 33 years of competition by beating Bruce tonight. If Bruce dumps the Campers the outcome of the championship race will hinge on the Fort Hill-Allegany game Friday night, provided the Sentinels whip the Braves at Barton High tonight. If Allegany loses its two remaining games it would be tied with Fort Hill for first place, thus necessitating a playoff for league and Allegany County Class "A" honors.

He lost a match here after turning pro and campaigned successfully for awhile under the name of "Jimmy Phillips." What's his name?

As You Were

(This is the 75th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

He's a lightweight boxer who figured in an even dozen amateur fights in this section 18 years ago and won every one of his ring engagements.

He came to this county from Fredricktown (population 2,500) Washington County, Pa., and headed most of the programs sponsored by the D. A. C.

This Keystone State in 1935 whiped Bill Niland of Cumberland three times; Leo Sweeney of Pittsburgh, twice; Tony Farri, Hagerstown; George Martzo, Pittsburgh; Marion Barnes, Baltimore; Mike Morton, Washington, D. C.; Joe Brady, Pittsburgh, and Jack Rorick and Abby Eyer, Cumberland.

The Sweeney mentioned is the same boxer who won the National AAU welterweight championship in the Boston tournament of 1936. He lost a match here after turning pro and campaigned successfully for awhile under the name of "Jimmy Phillips." What's his name?

W. M. I. League and they now reside in W. Va., but he's still the same boxer he was.

West Virginia Pup and Boston's Earl Torgeson.

3. Boston gets First Baseman Joe Adcock, Shortstop Jim Pendleton and cash.

4. Cincinnati gets infielder Rocky Bridges and a Boston player to be announced later.

Here's the way the deals broke:

1. Brooklyn announced it had traded Bridges and Pendleton to Boston for Meyer.

2. Philadelphia announced it had traded Meyer and "some cash" to Boston for Torgeson.

3. Boston announced it had traded Bridges and a player to be announced later to Cincinnati for Adcock.

Silvery brunettes become stunning blondes when they smartly play up their new, lighter locks!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Every blonde at some time in her life secretly longs to be a blonde. Her wishes eventually are fulfilled—for that's what she is when her tresses turn to silver.

At that moment, she enjoys a second boon, unpossessed by all but the rarest blonde—a most striking color contrast between dark skin and fair hair. To become highly distinctive and a much-admired type of beauty, all she need do is make the most of this color contrast with make-up and clothing shades.

Sparkling Silver Tresses

You can't be too choosy in selecting foundations and powder. Test them by smoothing a little on the inside of your wrist. The just-right choice will be as creamy or golden as your skin in undertone . . . and the overlay should be just a bit darker and pinker. As in coral and scarlet, your lipsticks must carry a bit of a golden tone. Let your personal preference dictate the exact shade but never let it be so warm that it is flaming. Match your rouge to your lipstick but use it with the utmost caution. In eyeshadow, a French gray is your most dramatic choice.

Hair cosmetics are especially important to your make-up magic. Never omit a silver rinse (beware of blue overtones, though) and always use a "shimmer" dressing or pomade.

Wardrobe Shades

In clothing, contrary to what you may have heard about brown yellowing silver hair, it's better for you than black. Just keep your brown very dark and tinged with red tones and it will never jaundice your tresses. What it will do is add flattering depth to the warmth of your skin. Black never accomplishes this mission used with touches of bright color next to the face.

Silver gray, deep red-purple, moss and olive green, pink-mauve, oyster-white, royal and green blues, mellow reds and all lively but no wishy-washy pastels are yours for enhancement whenever you choose them.

Above all, don't be afraid of color! A blonde should celebrate her silvery stage with a call to colors that accents her new and glorious type.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career is to learn how to hold your job. Read Secrets of Charm for a valuable wardrobe. Save time, uncertainty needlessly worry through these short-cut steps that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper. ## In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bessie A. Nied, who passed away 5 years ago, February 17, 1948.

Today our hearts are heavy.

Our thoughts are all of them.
Oh, how we miss you, dear.

But, God in Heaven can see.

Some say time heals aching hearts.

But, No, it isn't true.

Five long years have passed, dear.

And our hearts still ache for you.

Boy, 2, Is Shot While Playing; Veteran Jailed

Larry Pfeiffer Wounded In Leg

The two-year-old son of a city policeman was wounded by a shotgun blast while playing at his home early last night and police arrested a disabled World War II veteran in connection with the shooting.

Larry Pfeiffer, son of Officer and Mrs. George C. Pfeiffer, 425 Columbia Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with shotgun pellets in his left leg. His condition was "fair."

Richard Pendlebury, 29, who lives in the downstairs apartment in the Pfeiffer home, was lodged in City Jail for action of the State's Attorney's Office.

The shooting took place at about 6:45 p. m. Pfeiffer, who was off duty at the time, said he was lying in bed when he heard the shot.

The officer jumped out of bed to see what had happened, and then heard his wife scream as she discovered that her small son had been shot.

Pfeiffer called police, and Officers John G. Powers and Carl Williams arrived at the house a few minutes later.

When Officer Powers went into the Pendlebury kitchen, he said, Pendlebury was standing with a double-barreled .12-gauge shotgun cradled in his arms and his back to the door.

Powers drew his revolver as Pendlebury started to turn toward him.

"Don't turn around," ordered the officer. "Just drop the gun."

Pendlebury dropped the shotgun and Powers led him outside to the patrol wagon-ambulance, into which Pfeiffer and Williams already had placed the injured boy.

Had Caused Disturbance

At the hospital, attachés said the boy apparently had not been struck in any vital organs, but that X-rays would be taken today.

Pendlebury, who had two small facial lacerations, refused treatment at the hospital. Police said he fell while climbing into the patrol wagon.

Pfeiffer told Sgt. Charles C. Roby, acting head of the shift on duty, that Pendlebury had been drinking and had been making noise downstairs for some time before the shooting.

Officers were called to the house less than an hour before the gun was fired when someone complained that Pendlebury was making too much noise. They said they left after Pendlebury assured them he would be quiet.

Brother Escapes Harm

Shortly afterward, Larry Pfeiffer and his four-year-old brother Christian were playing in a room at the rear of the second floor when the shotgun blast tore through the flooring and struck the younger boy. Christian was unhurt.

The shotgun pellets blasted a small hole in the ceiling of the first-floor kitchen, ripped through a pine floor on the second story, pierced a carpet and struck the boy.

Officers later found the empty shell on the floor under the refrigerator in the Pendlebury kitchen. They also found part of a bottle of wine and a half-full glass on the kitchen cabinet.

Police said Pendlebury, who lost his right hand in World War II, had been unemployed until recently when he got a job at a local hotel.

He is scheduled to be questioned today in the State's Attorney's Office.

Dr. G. M. Simons Recalled To Army

Dr. George M. Simons, a practicing physician here since August 1948, has been recalled to active duty with the Army Medical Corps and will return to military service on March 9.

Dr. Simons is to report to Camp Kilmer, N. J., and then will be assigned to Germany for a probable two-year tour of duty.

He stopped his private practice a week ago yesterday and plans to wind up his duties as plant physician at Celanese at the end of this week.

Dr. Simons graduated from the University of Maryland Medical School in September 1944 and had his internship and residency at University Hospital, Baltimore, until he went into the Army Medical Corps in April 1946. He was discharged December 31, 1947.

His wife and two children will remain at their home in LaVale at least for the present.

Corriganville PTA Arranges Founder's Day Program

All former principals, teachers, PTA officers and members have been invited to attend the annual Founder's Day meeting of the Corriganville PTA at Corriganville School at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

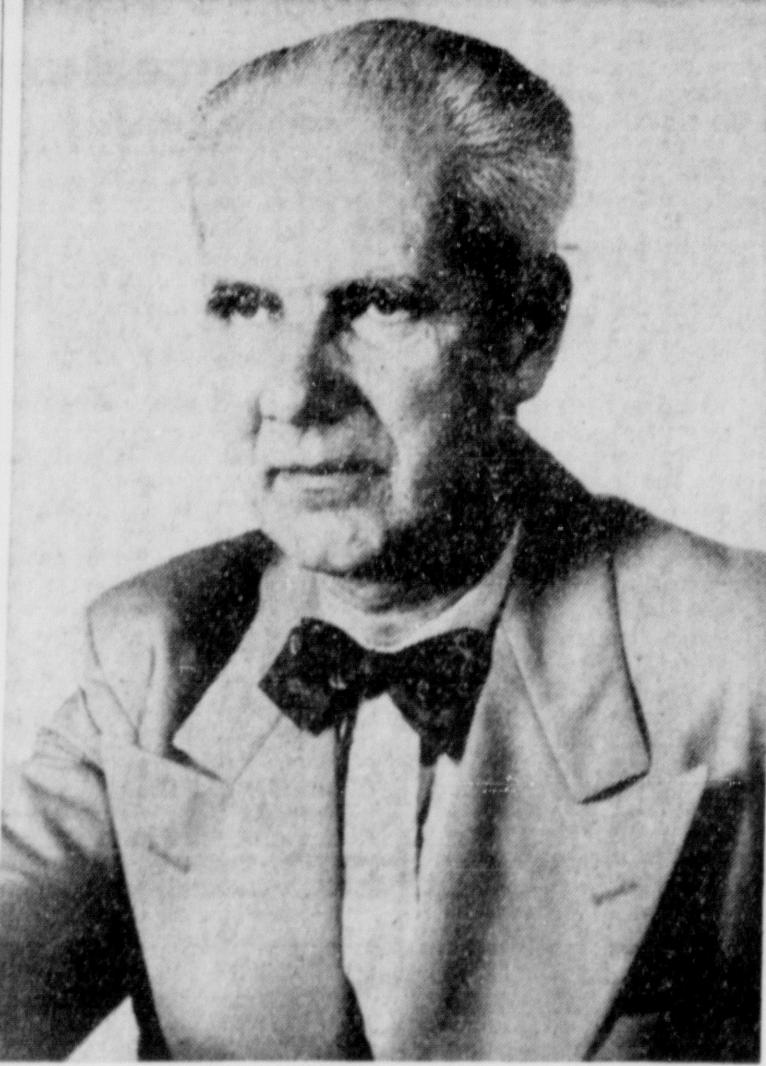

Former principals who plan to attend are Miss Elizabeth Flake, now principal at Gephart School; Miss Sara E. Wright, now principal at John Humbird School; John F. Manley, now principal at Hill Street School in Frostburg, and Miss Imogene Caudill, now principal of Eckhart School. Miss Marjorie Doak is the present principal.

Special recognition also will be given to Henry Gelzer of Corriganville, the school janitor, who is retiring at the end of February because he has reached the age of 70. He formerly was employed by the Western Maryland Railway.

The subject of a talk by Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, president of the County PTA Council.

Burton Fleeger will play a solo-vox as accompanist for group singing and also will offer several solo selections.

Chairman of arrangements for this special program is Mrs. John Gaff. She is being assisted by members of the PTA executive committee.

ARTHUR F. HAPPE

Arthur F. Happe Is Named To New Celanese Position

Arthur F. Happe, 948 Bedford Street, has been appointed to the newly-created position of controller for the Textile Division with headquarters at Charlotte, N. C., it was announced yesterday by L. L. Helmer, Amcile plant manager.

The appointment is effective immediately, but Happe will remain at Amcile until the end of March.

Happe joined Celanese at Amcile as cost accountant on June 1, 1932. He was promoted to his present position of plant accountant and office manager in September, 1939.

Born in Ascot, England, with sight of the famous race track, he graduated from Springfield College at Acton, near London. Shortly thereafter he came to the United States.

Soon he enlisted in the 27th Division and for the next two and one-half years served on the Mexican border and in France as a first-class sergeant in the Signal Corps.

After discharge from the Army he worked for two years as a field auditor for the United States Shipping Board.

He spent the next three years as accountant and office manager for the States Marine Company in Baltimore.

Dr. Joseph T. Singewald Jr. told the Board of Natural Resources that the drilling of 90 gas wells in Western Maryland's Mountain Lake area in the past two years represented a "shameful record of wasteful exploitation and financial loss."

Vote To Support Bill

The board voted to support any legislative bill that might be introduced as a result of Singewald's recommendation. A well spacing control measure passed the House of Delegates during the 1951 session, but died in a Senate committee.

For those, he said, 49 were completely dry and 41 were productive. The cost to drill the productive wells was $1,230,000, or just under the expected profits. Ten of those wells have already been abandoned, Singewald reported.

Would Prevent Loss

Spacing control legislation would have "prevented this enormous financial loss," Singewald said, "protected the royalty rights of landowners who lost out in the free-for-all scramble and protected the misdeeds of exploitation by promoters who knew they couldn't make the wells pay off."

Such a record will serve as a severe deterrent to further exploration for oil and gas in Maryland, he said. Singewald declared those companies which have drilled the most wells in the state will not seek new reserves unless prompted by a sound control law.

Dinner Planned Sunday

The men of B'er Chayim congregation will prepare and serve a dinner to members in the Temple vestry rooms Sunday at 6 p. m. General chairman is Alfred Schwalb with Bertram Lazarus, chairman of the chefs and Paul Steinberger, reservations. Entertainment will follow the meal.

"The Part That The PTA Can Play in a Community," will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, president of the County PTA Council.

Burton Fleeger will play a solo-vox as accompanist for group singing and also will offer several solo selections.

Chairman of arrangements for this special program is Mrs. John Gaff. She is being assisted by members of the PTA executive committee.

Miss Jean Reinhart, secretary, and Miss Gladys Frantz, assistant secretary, will attend a State TB Association conference in Baltimore.

Special recognition also will be given to Henry Gelzer of Corriganville, the school janitor, who is retiring at the end of February because he has reached the age of 70. He formerly was employed by the Western Maryland Railway.

Delegation Asked To Defer Action On $500,000 Bill

Belt Route Listed In Big SRC Program

City officials yesterday wired the Allegany County Delegation to defer introduction of a $500,000 bond issue for the South End Industrial Boulevard, which is included in work slated here during the 12-year improvement program of the State Roads Commission.

At the same time, the city forwarded a resolution asking the county legislators to introduce a $350,000 traffic improvement program for the city which is not included in the SRC plan.

Mayor Roy W. Eves yesterday asked Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, to withhold any action on the $500,000 issue until the Council can take action.

City officials say they are not ready to have the bill dropped, explaining it may be necessary to introduce the plan if the $568,000 SRC program is turned down by the General Assembly.

The action was taken after the city learned, at a conference with SRC officials last week, that the Belt Route was included in an $8,000,000 plan of the state for speeding through traffic in Cumberland by an overhead bridge and two connecting highway routes.

Receipt of the resolution by the Delegation is expected to result in the immediate introduction of a $350,000 bond issue, without referendum, to finance improvements in the $350,000 SRC program.
